

In Search of El dorado

A daily journal of my travels and adventures in my.....Search for Eldorado

Hello to Family & Friends

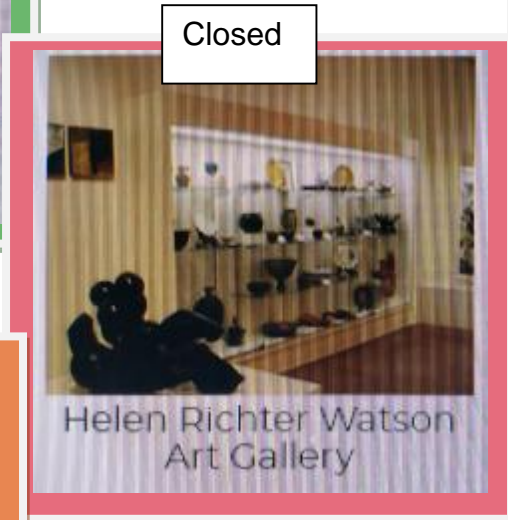

Thursday, February 18th 2021 Day 32

I made several more calls this morning.....

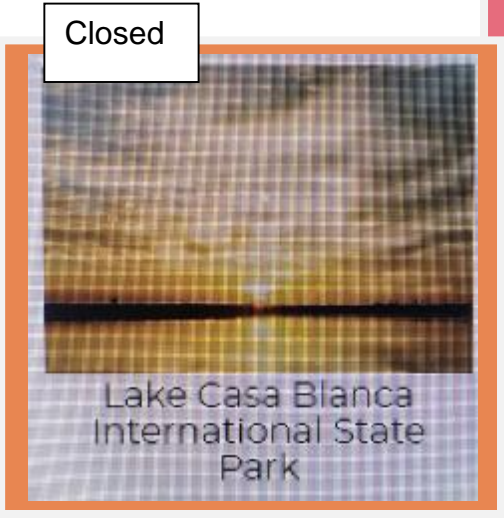

Casa Ortiz

Helen Richter Watson Art Gallery

Border Heritage Museum

Lake Casa Blanca International State Park

Laredo Water Museum

Closed

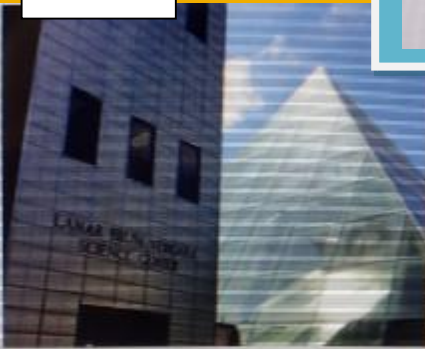

Republic of the Rio Grande Museum

Closed

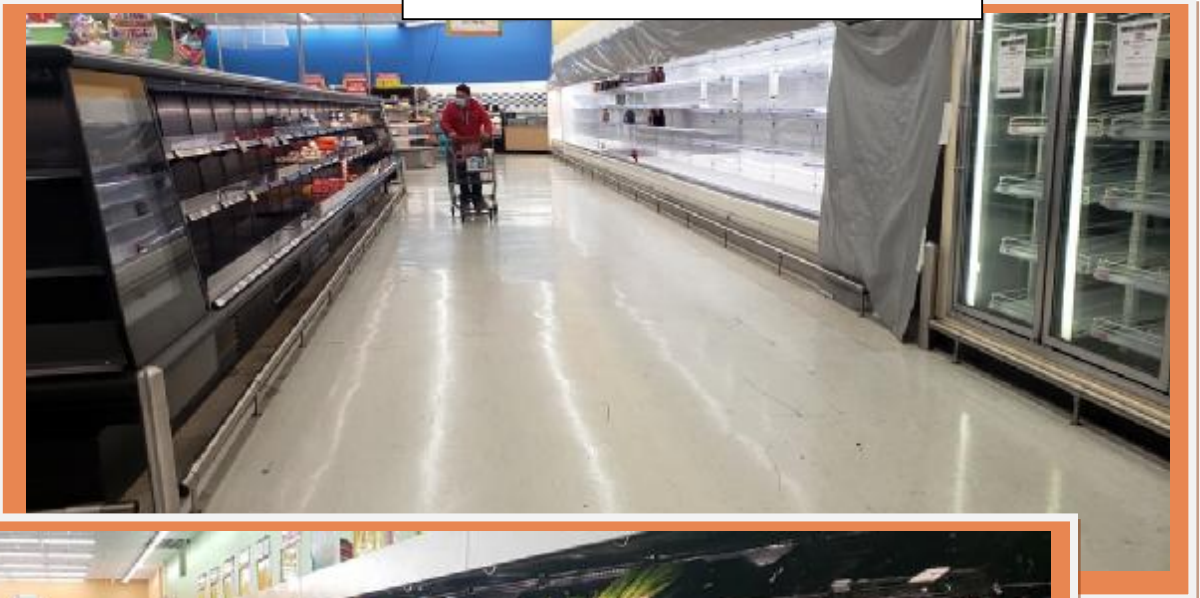

Texas A&M International University Art Gallery

Closed

TAMU LBV Planetarium

....then I went to the grocery store....

At least they will get a chance to deep clean the shelves

....then I went for a drive, just to kill time.

I received another call to work claims here in Texas.

Morgan sent me a link, her power is back on by the way, about sea turtles.

<https://www.cnn.com/2021/02/18/us/texas-turtles-freezing-rescue-texas-trnd/index.html>

This link is to a CNN report. Remember when I was back at South Padre Island and visited Sea Turtle Inc.? I told the story about how sea turtles were 'cold stunned' off Boston and some of them have arrived here to be recuperated. Now the same has happened in the Gulf and over 4500 sea turtles have been brought to Sea Turtle Inc from the Gulf and beaches of the area.

But Sea Turtle Inc was without power until SpaceX sent them a generator to power their facility. The clip even mentions Allison, the first turtle with the prosthetic flipper, I had a photo of her in my newsletter.

I may call tomorrow and see if they need any helping hands.

I parked at the Flying J again for the night. Below freezing temps forecast and I was hoping to have semis parked behind me and on both sides to block the wind. I did park behind one but, wouldn't you know it, I get flatbeds parked on both sides. So much for a wind break.

I assume this will be my last newsletter until I have something of interest to show you. Who knows, I may end up back on South Padre Island helping save some sea turtles. That will be a unique experience.

Until next time.....